Such a machine made by you would be a blessing to millions of mothers. It would make a few more expensive for machines no more than your car interferes with the more expensive cars.

On the contrary, as your cheap car developed the use of more expensive cars, so your cheap electric refrigerator would develop the use of expensive refrigeration.

Please hand this suggestion to your son, Edsel, who is younger and perhaps looking for trouble.

London, July 10 (I.N.R.)—The New York-London express train is a possibility, according to Fredrick K. Carpenter of Chicago, a railroad organizer, who has been studying railroad conditions in Europe.

Within ten or fifteen years, Carpenter says, it is more than likely that express trains will leave New York for London, via Alaska. Trains will be ferried across Bering Strait to the Trans-Siberian Railroad. A train ferry complete the link.

Such a journey would take three weeks.

BUDLONG STORMS HEAT

VT. TRAIN WRECKED, FARMHOUSES BURN, N. E. ROADS FLOODED

Terrific thunderstorms, sweeping eastward today, took lives, besides causing disastrous fires, a railroad wreck and heavy damage to crops, while deaths in the heat were at least 100. The storm reached a total of twenty.

Walloped by a sharp wind, the thunderstorm raged across Vermont, of States and five persons were dead there, while in Chicago the death toll in the hot spell increased to twelve. Hundreds of thousands of people out of business in the West.

Torrential rains caused the wreck of a thirty-car freight at Station near Newport, Vt., when the engine and one car plunged into a washout six feet long and ten feet deep on the Canadian Pacific line. Married by the engine, the engine was smashed to death and several killed. The engine was wrecked at Newport, the engine was wrecked at Newport, the engine was wrecked at Newport.

732 CONVICTS SNATCHED HOLD 14 GUARDS CAPTIVE

Lansing, Kan., July 10.—Deep in the bowels of the earth today, 14 officers and guards of the Kansas penitentiary were plying their strength against 732 convict miners in quiet mutiny.

There was a possibility that State troops would be sent to the mine to quell the mutiny.

The convicts blocked any chance of lifting the beleaguered guards when they jammed the cage in the shaft, making it impossible to send help down. They are 780 feet from the surface.

The cage was tied down and telephones were communicating with the top of the shaft were cut, isolating the fighters from the surface.

Any attempt to starve out the convicts would naturally hit the guards and officers just as hard.

The attempted holdup occurred at 10th and Commercial streets, Boston.

DISORDER AS BUDLONG TRIAL ENDS; WIFE PINS 'DESERTION' ON HIM

Newport, R. I., July 10.—With an angry stamp of her foot and a caustic rebuke of her husband's lawyer, Mrs. Milton J. Budlong today began the closing moments of her grim battle to keep her millionaire husband from divorcing her and taking her children.

Attired more strikingly than on any previous day of the trial, she took off her hat for the first time in the courtroom, having her beautiful jet black hair as she addressed Judge Edward W. Budgett and asked permission to read into the record testimony at previous trials.

In an instant the most venomous clash of the trial followed. Attorney Albert Phillips, Budlong's lawyer, leaped to his feet and interrupted her with a string of protests, citing legal precedents.

She turned on him in a flash, her eyes shining fire and shouted, "VII and sprang her promised surprise by winding up her testimony and the trial itself in very short order. The last words of her fight were the only bitter ones she used during the trial, which had been marked by a superficial covering of great politeness.

First she demanded that the identity of "Mrs. X" and "Mrs. Y," the two alleged women friends of Budlong, be made public.

"I want the identity of Mrs. X and Mrs. Y brought out into the open," she said, looking squarely at the judge, but she continued, without waiting for a reply from the court, and she did not seem to regard her statement as a request, but only the expression of her desire.

"THE DESERTED MEN"

Then she turned on Budlong. "I lived with Mr. Budlong ever since we were married, but it was he who left our common bed and bedroom and later left the house, 'The Reef.' That is all I have to say."

While spectators and principals in the courtroom stared with surprise, she stepped from the witness stand and began gathering up her things. She put on her hat and then turned to Judge Hildreth to ask permission to file a written argument. The court gave her ten days in which to do so.

She gathered up her notes, her fragments of the evidence of her prayer books and walked out of the room without looking to the right or left. In another minute she was seated in her coupe and was driving toward her lodging house. Judge Hildreth took the case on for adjournment and a decision is not expected for two weeks or more.

"I have found out that it costs real money to fight a court case," she said to a Boston Evening American reporter before she drove away. "I was unable to get any witnesses because I had no money with which to bring them here."

Asked if she was penniless, she replied: "All I get is $750 a month from my husband and I cannot afford counsel fees and expenses for witnesses out of that."

If the outcome of the legal suit against her, Mrs. Budlong will spend the remainder of the summer studying law to fit herself to carry her fight personally to the Rhode Island Supreme court, she said today.

"I expect an adverse decision and I will devote myself in the fall to months to a thorough study of law to prepare myself to argue my own case before the Supreme Court," she declared.

Warden W. H. Stocke said he believed the self-imposed imprisonment was part of a protest over a shortage of bed sheets in prison cell houses.

Recently the prisoners staged a demonstration to secure their demands for sheets, he said, shouting and rattling cell doors all night. The shortage of bedding, Stocke said, was due to lack of funds.

The prisoners refused to send a committee to the shaft to consider "terms," apparently fearing retaliation of a rise used to quell a similar mutiny in 1915.

HER DYING WORDS FOR LOVE DISCLOSED

Son, 14, Fighting Mad With Man Who Took Mother on Fatal "Joy" Ride

"Gertrude loved me and I loved her," Dr. Lorne W. Harris of Cliffondale said shortly after the death of Mrs. Gertrude Berry Moulton, his joy-ride companion, according to a story told today by Mrs. Lillian Moulton, the dead woman's mother-in-law.

The physician admits accompanying Mrs. Moulton on a trip to Nova Scotia and Maine, ending in a fatal motor crash at East Machias, Me., but both he and his wife place the blame on the dead woman.

"After Gertrude died Dr. Harris came into the kitchen, here trembling like a leaf," said Mrs. Lillian Moulton as she busied herself caring for the motherless children of her son.

"I'll tell the world," "The doctor blurted out, 'I'll say anything I'll tell the world what happened. I am not afraid Gertrude loved me and I loved her. As she lay dying I was there, though everything he did was perfectly right. I must not, under any circumstances, have been married forty-three years, but never heard of anything else like this before."

"My son insisted to thank him, but I cautioned him that there were of days later Dr. Harris came over again and wanted my son to shake hands and be friends."

"The story of the doctor's wife, that Mrs. Moulton wanted Dr. Harris, was branded a lie by Mrs. Lillian Moulton."

SON FIGHTING MAD.
An overwhelming desire to thrash Dr. Harris was expressed by Douglas, fourteen-year-old son of the dead woman, talking for the first time about the tragedy.

"All the time Dr. Harris was coming to see my mother, he tried to make friends with me but I didn't like him and never would," said Douglas. "There was talk about the house of a divorce but they would never have got me to leave my home and my father."

"The day Dr. Harris came over after mother's death I wanted to hit him one. He's a big man and I only was a boy. He was bigger. I'd beat him up in the street or anywhere else that I met him. He has more nerve than any man I ever saw."

"The trip that ended in tragedy was characterized as 'a joy ride' by Mrs. Harris, who holds her husband blameless. She admitted she and her husband have a fear that Federal authorities will invoke the Mann Act."

JOYCE HAWLEY IS ARRESTED
Chicago, July 10 (I.N.S.)—Joyce Hawley of nine bath fumes must appear in court today and explain to Judge Joseph Schulman about a wild automobile ride that landed her in a police station early today.

According to Monroeville, Police-man William McCormick, who, with a fellow officer, arrested Joyce after she was described as a "motor car," she drove past a stop sign at the rate of fifty-five miles an hour.

McCormick said her car adjoined after mother's death in a fight during her mad flight down Michigan boulevard. They overtook her a few days after she had ridden over the curb and under the highway and pointed into the doorway of a store.

McCormick said, and abused both officers when they insisted on taking her to the station.

Mrs. Hawley gave her own version of the affair:

"I am working at the Lincoln Tavern as an entertainer. I had an appointment with friends at the Blackstone Hotel at 2 o'clock this morning. I nearly lost my car when it, Mr. Duff, my employer, lent me his car."

"I was speeding. I guess, but I didn't have time to stop. And those men who arrested me. They were horrid. Sure I assented them, and who wouldn't?"

1,000 MEN OUT IN NEW YORK STRIKE

New York, July 10 (I.N.S.)—New York's subway strike was extended today with the walk-out of 232 of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company's 484 powerhouse employees. This brings the total of men on strike to more than 1,000.

Interborough officials asserted they were prepared to fill the places of the new strike recruits with an emergency crew, but expressed a fear of sabotage.

The full effect of the power strike will not be fully known until late today. There is a possibility, it was stated, that the strike of the power men will effectively tie up all subway and elevated trains in the Borough of Manhattan, with the exception of the Third Avenue elevated, which has a powerhouse of its own.

ORGANIZING BUS SERVICE.

City and transit officials were conferring this morning with a view to increasing the emergency bus service in the event of the anticipated breakdown.

Another accident occurred early today at South Ferry, when the truck of a string of empty cars on the East Side subway line left the track. A repair crew of forty men jacked the car into place. No one was injured.

HOPES TO STOP POWER.

Strikers had hoped that the walk-out of the members of the power house strikers, depending on the success of their leaders, would result in the strike. In addition, they had hoped that, if they had arranged to fill the places of the strikers, the power house strikers would be forced to accept their terms.

COOLOGE BUSY FIGHTING OFF MOSQUITOES

Presidential Skin is Much Punctured, and Scratching is Order of the Day

White Pine Camp, N. Y., July 10.—The Coolidge vacation is suffering a serious attack from two sources. Insects and mosquitoes are the elements which on far have prevented the Executive's stay in the Adirondacks from being all that might reasonably be expected. For the first time there is hope of ultimate relief, but none from the latter.

Of the twenty-four hours that President and Mrs. Coolidge have been here at their Summer White House it has rained almost continuously for forty-eight hours, a steady drizzling, depressing rain.

MOSQUITOES IN SWARMS

It is the mosquitoes and black flies, however, which are causing the greatest discomfort for the presidential party. The dense woods and the present dampness are bringing them out in swarms. Marine and secret service men are coming off duty at White Pine Camp, their faces, arms and ankles a perfect mass of bites, and those insects are suffering almost as badly, for screens seem to be no bar to their pests.

Major J. F. Coughlin and Commander Joel T. Brown, the President's medical officers, are in the line of the line, leading out swarms and flocks designed to keep the mosquito away or otherwise to irritate the bite.

Charles Ocar Oles and other residents of this section have undertaken to assure the President and Mrs. Coolidge that after July 15, the mosquitoes will disappear.

PRESIDENT SCRATCHES. "I trust they don't forget the date," observed Mr. Coughlin, fully scratching the latest bite.

The President expects to leave the Adirondacks next week to spend a few days at his birthplace in Plymouth, Vt. He is officially announced. The trip will be made by motor. No time for departure has yet been determined.

Quarried at yesterday's conference with newspapermen concerning the Mr. Coolidge landed on the day of his arrival, the President's representative, remained with the subject was dropped.

Encouraged by his first success as fisherman and by practice in casting, the President entered a boat with a guide and cast into the waters of Lake Ogeog today to try for the fish that frequent his waters.

WATER SHOWS DUTY FOR TIE. Because she had a change of mind and now "feels sorry for him," Mrs. Martin P. Baker, 29, of 1173 Beacon street, Brookline, failed to prosecute Walter E. Brown of Haver Avenue, Cambridge, a former guest at her home, when she charged him with the use of $5,000 from a "bureau drawer," which she had retained in Brookline District Court.

Brown was given a $100 fine and suspended sentence in the House of Correction and placed on probation for a year. Judge J. W. Sullivan, counsel for Mrs. Baker, pleaded for the defendant. Attorney for the counsel he was not to jail, but instead given a chance to make restitution.

Mystery surrounds the theft of the high grade securities on May 28, but Mrs. Baker refused to give the circumstances, as she wants the instant divorce. Brown has been made restitution of $4,835, it was disclosed in court.

U. S. FREES SHIP SUMNER

The release from custody of the U. S. Customs guard of the British schooner, Sumner, now tied up at the Appraiser's Store, was ordered today by U. S. Attorney Harold P. Williams.

The Sumner, with a cargo of 2,500 cases of alcohol, had been seized by a coast guard cutter on Wednesday last, ten and a half miles off Peaked Hill, Mass.

U. S. Attorney Williams in ordering the release of the schooner, said there was no evidence that the vessel had established any illegal connection with the Massachusetts shore.

GOLF CHAMP HELD AS 2 DIE IN AUTO CRASH

Darien, Conn., July 10 (A.P.).—A. C. Gilson, State golf champion in 1925, is held in $2,000 today to await a finding by Congress John J. Faneau on the death of Edmund L. Ford, 25, of Stamford, and Karl Camp of Northford.

Faneau and Camp were driving to Norwalk when they struck King's Highway on the Boston Post road to repair a tire. The police believe both men were on the left side of their car when Gilson drove by, accelerating them. In the crash were the Misses Edith Baker and Katherine Miller of Darien.

SENT TO PRISON FOR INSULTING REMARKS. Boston, July 10 (A.P.).—Camille Fields, a Massachusetts woman, was sentenced to 15 months imprisonment for making "insulting" remarks concerning Italy's constitutional institutions.

TAKING TASK OUT OF NANTASKET

Margaret Peterson and Frances Harrison, two of the jolly Shepard store employees who had a dandy time on the annual outing at Nantasket today.

All tasks were forgotten for the day and 600 workers had a dandy time despite the rather gloom-laden sky.

There was dancing, sports, bathing and everything imaginable good to eat.

SEARCH FOR 80 BODIES GIVEN UP

Eighteen All That Craft Contained: Twelve Are Identified

New York, July 10 (A.P.).—Search for more bodies in the submarine SSI has been abandoned.

Leutenant-Commander Young, aide to Rear-Admiral Pinckney, commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, announced today that the eighteen bodies recovered yesterday were all that were in the ill-fated submarine.

Of the bodies recovered, twelve have been identified. Lieut-Com. H. H. Lane of the Naval Hospital said that work of identification was still going on.

There were thirty-six men aboard the submarine when it was rammed and sunk last September by the German liner steamer City of Rome. Three were rescued. Eight bodies were taken from the wreckage while the submarine rested on the bottom of the ocean off Block Island. With the eighteen bodies removed yesterday all are accounted for but seven. Passengers on the City of Rome reported seeing men in the water but were rescued by the boat that picked up the three men that survived the accident.

The Court of Inquiry spent part of the day investigating the cause of the grounding of the submarine tow in East River Wednesday, but it adjourned before noon. It will resume inquiry Monday afternoon.

35 YEARS FOR SLAYER DUNN

Chicago, July 10 (U.S.N.).—Thirty-five years in prison was the penalty recommended by the jury today in the case of Martin James Dunn, in Chicago's "shooting shik," convicted of the murder of Edwin C. Shanahan, Federal agent, last October.

Two of the jurors, it was said, turned death, but a sentence of 14 years to life, and seven a 40-year sentence before a compromise was reached.

The 35-year-old thug, who escaped to California with one sweet heart, then returned and married another girl, was found to have shot the Federal officer while the latter was attempting, his arrest here for automobile theft on the Pacific Coast.

Dunn intended he shot in self defense, believing the officer was trying to hold him up for $2,000 he carried, proceeds of bootlegging.

The defendant killed turned pale when the verdict was read. "God Almight!" he exclaimed. "I didn't know I was going to die," he said. "I was just trying to make money when I was shot."

FIRE TRIBUTE TO CAPT. HUCKEY

Boston paid final honors today to Captain H. H. Hucky, a police veteran of forty years' service, for whom funeral services were held in East Boston while business halted, five bells tolled and scores of policemen marched reverently.

Following fire service at the captain's home, 20, 144 Cambridge street, a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at Sacred Heart Church by Rev. James H. O'Neill, the pastor, assisted by Rev. Edward Murphy and the Rev. Patrick J. McCarthy. Inside the church rail were many Boston clergymen.

The funeral cortege was headed by Capt. Louis Latta, Lieut. Martin H. Keane and Fred J. Swendeman, and a detail of forty-eight policemen, and behind the horse marched fifty-four men of Station 7, East Boston, where the deceased was captain for nine years. As it filed slowly past the houses of Station 7 and 8, the apparatus was drawn up in salute and the bells tolled.

Mayor Nichols, Police Commissioner Wilson and Superintendent Crowley attended the services. Burial was at Holy Cross cemetery. Madden, where a prayer was said by McCarthy.

SHOTS HALT BOY AUTO THIEVES IN CAMBRIDGE

Joe H. Sullivan, 15, of 101 A Street, Cambridge, and Nick G. Broadway, Cambridge, and Nick G. Broadway, Cambridge, were arrested today after a chase that began in Cambridge by Motorcade Officer Henry Peller.

They had taken the machine of Florence Adams, No. 24 Winthrop street, and were proceeding toward Arlington when Peller ordered them to halt. He fired them to halt when he fired two shots in the air.

Throw Husband Out Window, Her Advice

Paris, July 10.—When being sentenced to five years' imprisonment for throwing her husband from a window, fatally injuring him, Mrs. Etienne Travers told the Cam Court.

HOOPER WILL BE 600 AT SHEPARD STORE OUTING

Washington, July 10 (U.S.N.).—Following the sweeping decision of Attorney-General Baker, throwing radio broadcasting into uncharted waters, Department of Commerce officials today heartily endorse the possible selection by the radio interests of an unofficial "ban" to keep the industry off the seas until Congress enacts legislation.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, though without power under the law to regulate broadcasting, may be expected to by the radio industry.

NEED GUIDING HAND. Some manufacturers and operators of large stations said that even without the power of law, Hoover will be able to maintain radio in comparative equilibrium until Congress acts.

Already a campaign to the attention of equipment manufacturers, broadcasters and by practices in casting, the President entered a boat with a guide and cast into the waters of Lake Ogeog today to try for the fish that frequent his waters.

SEA HERO OFFICIATES AT WEDDING ON SHIP

New York, July 10.—Captain George Fried of the United States liner President Roosevelt, born of the rescue last Winter of the British freighter Antenor, arrived with his ship after a busy day.

He married an American couple who tried to have the ceremony performed in Germany. He helped to save the life of a sailor. He sighted an abandoned ship west of Washington—said an incident in the routine of his duty.

"If all married women did the same thing their husbands would be water—got along with."
